

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT – DISTRICT OF COLORADO

Procedure for Taxation of Costs

A bill of costs shall be submitted on the District of Colorado's local version of Form AO133, a copy of which is attached, and filed by electronic means unless the filing party is otherwise authorized to file in paper [D.C.COLO.LCivR 5.1]. Parties permitted to file in paper shall do so in the Clerk's Office at the Alfred A. Arraj U.S. Courthouse located at 901 19th Street, Denver, CO 80294-3589.

A bill of costs must be filed with the court within 14 days after entry of judgment or final order. The prevailing party seeking costs will be required to confirm that the parties have conferred or will otherwise be unable to file its proposed bill of costs. If both parties agree to costs, the prevailing party will indicate stipulation when filing its proposed bill of costs. If a dispute remains as to any portion of the costs sought, the prevailing party will indicate a lack of stipulation and the opposing party may file a response that sets forth its position on the disputed costs. Following review of all documentation, costs will be taxed by the Clerk's designated deputy.

The Process

(1) Judgment

Once a final judgment has been entered in the case, the prevailing party may pursue taxation of costs. A Bill of Costs must be filed within 14 days after judgment is entered or it will be denied.

(2) Parties confer

D.C.COLO.LCivR 54.1 requires that parties confer as to taxation of cost. This means that parties must make a reasonable effort to agree upon appropriate costs. The prevailing party will be required to confirm conferral before it is able to file its Proposed Bill of Costs. A statement of conferral should be included in the Proposed Bill of Costs. Should any costs remain under dispute following conferral, and the parties wish to have a hearing to discuss these disputed costs, availability dates should be discussed so that the prevailing party can provide these dates to the court.

(3) Bill of Cost filed

The prevailing party should file the AO133 Bill of Cost electronically in CM/ECF using event Proposed Bill of Costs. During the docketing sequence, the prevailing party will be prompted to designate whether the Bill of Costs is stipulated to in its entirety or partially/not stipulated. Substantiating documentation, such as invoices and receipts, should be included. If the filing party is authorized to file in paper, do so at the Clerk's Office. If the proposed Bill of Costs is not submitted completely with appropriate supporting documentation, the deputy clerk will issue a Rejection of Proposed Bill of Cost and no further action will be taken.

Should the parties not reach an agreement on all costs, and the prevailing party properly designates its Proposed Bill of Costs as non-stipulated, the docketing sequence will prompt the prevailing party to specifically identify which costs remain under dispute. An NEF will issue prompting the non-prevailing party to file its Objection to Proposed Bill of Costs within 28 days. In its Objection, the non-prevailing party should indicate why it does not stipulate to the disputed costs.

If parties wish to have a hearing addressing the costs that remain in dispute, the prevailing party's Proposed Bill of Costs should include the dates upon which parties are available, as discussed during conferral. Additionally, the non-prevailing party should file its Request for Hearing on Proposed Bill of Costs. This request should explain why the parties need to appear before the hearing officer to further support their pleadings that addressed disputed costs. The deputy clerk will eventually issue a Clerk's Response to Request for Hearing, which parties will receive as an NEF, either granting or denying the request for a hearing.

(4) Costs taxed

Regardless of whether parties stipulate to all costs, the designated deputy clerk will review all materials submitted by the parties. The deputy clerk will determine whether taxation of costs can be assessed based on the information submitted. If it can, the deputy clerk will issue Costs Taxed without further action. If clarification or additional supporting documentation is needed, a Notice will issue prompting that the Proposed Bill of Cost be amended. If a hearing is determined necessary, either as requested by a party or at the clerk's discretion, the deputy clerk will schedule a hearing accordingly.

Costs taxed by the deputy clerk may be further reviewed by the district judge at either party's request by filing a Motion for Review of Costs Taxed.
